What is Juvederm?

Juvederm is a colorless hyaluronic acid gel. Hyaluronic acid is a naturally occurring sugar found in the human body that acts as a cushioning agent. Juvederm XC contains a small amount of lidocaine to reduce the pain associated with skin injections.

Juvederm is made by Allergan, Inc., a company with over 20 years of successful clinical experience in treating multiple cosmetic and medical conditions.

What Kind of Facial Wrinkles Can Juvederm Treat?

Juvederm is used to treat wrinkles around the nose and mouth. It can be an effective treatment for smile lines (nasolabial folds) and marionette lines at the corners of the mouth.

Who Cannot Receive Juvederm Treatments?

Patients who are pregnant, nursing, have a neuromuscular disease, uncontrolled diabetes, bleeding disorder or other medical condition that may make them immuno-compromised cannot receive Juvederm injections. Patients who are allergic to lidocaine also cannot receive the XC formulations of Juvederm*. Discuss each option with your provider to determine if you are an appropriate candidate for Juvederm treatments and which product would work best.

*Please see full safety & prescribing information pamphlet.

What are the Possible Side Effects of Juvederm treatments?

Most patients experience some mild swelling and/or bruising at the site of injections. Rare complications include infection, asymmetrical results or an allergic reaction.

Most discomfort and discoloration will last less than 7 days.

How Much Does Juvederm Cost?

The cost will depend on the type of product you choose:

0.4 mL Juvederm Ultra $350

0.8 mL Juvederm Ultra $450

0.4 mL Juvederm Ultra Plus $400

0.8 mL Juvederm Ultra Plus $500

1 mL Juvederm Ultra Plus $550

0.4 mL Juvederm Ultra XC $400

0.4 mL Juvederm Ultra Plus XC $450

1 mL Juvederm Ultra XC $500

How Should I Prepare for a Juvederm Treatment?

Do not take any Aspirin or NSAIDS (Ibuprofen, Advil, Aleve) for 7 days prior to your treatment. These may cause excessive bleeding at the injection sites.

What is the Recovery Time?

It is advised that you do not exercise vigorously or become exposed to moderate heat or cold temperatures for 24 hours after treatment.
